

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a trampling of our rights.

This is something that I'd expect to see in Russia, not the United States of America.

Because Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, they should serve the public, not campaign for their candidate.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you for listening.
